

Getting ready to retire!

your Rock for Retirement®

Prudential

Congratulations!

Just by attending Prudential's Retirement Readiness seminar, you've learned valuable information and key steps to help you toward a more secure financial future.

Now, by using this retirement planning workbook, you can make even more progress toward your future goals. This workbook will help you take actionable steps toward a more secure retirement and provide you with important facts and information you'll need as you continue to plan for a rewarding future. This workbook can also help you with tips on preparing to turn your retirement savings into lifetime income.

What lifestyle do I want—and how much will it cost?

Envision your lifestyle

In the spaces below, write some notes about the kind of lifestyle you want in retirement.

How will you spend your time and who will you spend it with?

Will you continue to work?

Where will you live? Will you sell or buy a home?

✓ Things to consider

- Career goals
- Entertainment/friends
- Family time
- Leisure activities
- Mental fitness
- Physical fitness
- Travel
- Volunteer work

Maximize your current savings

Roll other savings into your plan—consolidating your assets makes it easier to:

- Track your savings—with just one statement, one website, and one toll-free number to call
- Diversify your investments—it's easier to maintain proper balance when you can see how your investments work together
- Manage your retirement money—a single source lets you tailor your income strategy

Plan your budget

Now's the time to get a handle on what your retirement expenses may be. Consider, too, which expenses will be "must-haves" and which may be "nice-to-haves." Then estimate how much each one may cost you. Keep in mind that some of your expenses may fall into both categories, as in the example below.

Expense Category	"Must-Haves" (estimated annual cost)	"Nice-to-Haves" (estimated annual cost)
For Example: Clothing	$ 2,000	$ 5,000
• Food	$ _____	$ _____
• Housing: e.g., mortgage or rent	$ _____	$ _____
• Utilities: e.g., electricity, gas, oil, phone, cable and Internet	$ _____	$ _____

What may my healthcare expenses be?

Review the healthcare coverage you'll have in retirement

Starting at age 65, you're likely to be covered by Medicare. But even then, Medicare may not cover all your healthcare expenses. Take a minute now to consider how you'll cover the gap.

Individual healthcare insurance

Insurer $ _____
Annual Premium

✓ Things to consider

- Medicare might not cover as much of your healthcare expenses as you originally thought.
- You will need to use an ever-increasing amount of your retirement income to cover healthcare costs once you are retired.

- Social Security: To get an estimate of your personal income benefit from Social Security when you retire, go to: www.ssa.gov.
- Pensions: If you have a pension, call your benefits manager for a pension estimate.
- Savings: Stocks, bonds, life insurance, real estate, IRAs, annuities, part-time wages, and other sources of income.
- Some sources suggest it may be preferable to spend principal from after-tax savings first, and then draw down proceeds from an IRA or company-sponsored plan.

¹ Qualified distributions are federally tax-free, provided the Roth account has been open for at least five years and the owner has reached age 59½ or meets other requirements. Qualified Roth IRA distributions may be subject to state and local income tax.

² Certain investors' income may be subject to the federal Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT), and state and local taxes may also apply.

✓ Things to consider

If you're age 50+, you may be able to save more!

- Current legislation affecting qualified retirement savings programs may allow you to make additional “catch-up” contributions to your account.
- Catch-up contributions can change annually. To get the most updated information please log on to www.ssa.gov.

✓ Things to consider

If your salary exceeds the limits for a Roth IRA, you can always open a Traditional IRA. While your contributions may not be tax-deductible, they will still grow tax-deferred.

✓ Things to consider

Stay invested for growth... to retirement and beyond.

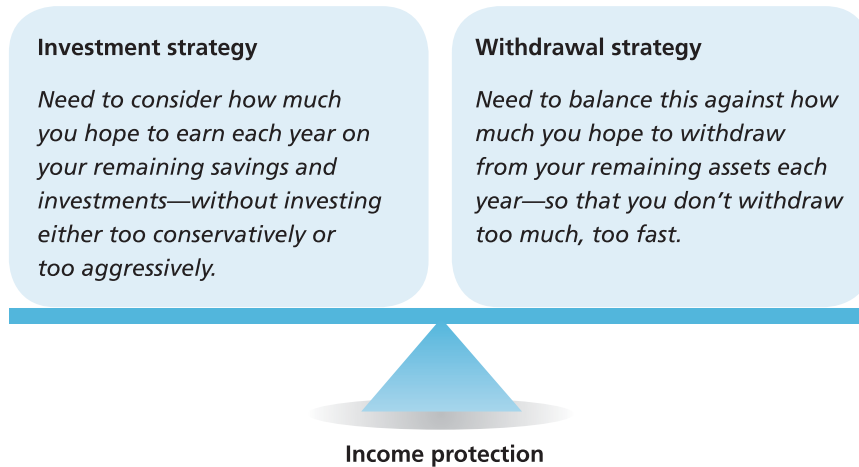

Remember, you may still have some time before you retire—and you're likely to be retired 25 years or more. So if you don't stay invested for growth, inflation will actually deflate your buying power.

If you'd like someone to review your investments with you, don't hesitate to call a certified⁴ Retirement Counselor at 1-888-244-6297.

⁴ Many of Prudential Retirement's Personal Retirement Services Retirement Counselors carry the distinct designation of Certified Retirement Consultants, an advanced certification available through the International Foundation for Retirement Education (InFRE). Certification includes mastery of retirement plan design, investment strategy, retirement income management, and retirement readiness and counseling.

How can I help protect my future income?

Balance your investment/income strategies

Earmark your taxable income sources to cover your "must-have" expenses

Explore your income options

Look for strategies that give you the right combination of guarantees, growth and control.

- Take systematic withdrawals
- Invest in a mix of interest-paying accounts
- Consider your home equity
- Convert savings into guaranteed income

✓ Things to consider

Investment Strategy.⁵ Since your retirement will likely last 30 years or more, you may want to keep some of your money invested more aggressively, since these types of investments have historically provided the best opportunities for growth. Please remember, past performance is no guarantee of future results.

Withdrawal Strategy. Many experts suggest no more than a 4% withdrawal rate. Find out how much you can take out per year with our online calculator, How Long Will My Money Last.

Tailor your own retirement income plan now based on:

- Anticipated expenses, for both what you need—and what you want
- Likely sources of income, including guaranteed sources like Social Security and pensions
- Current savings—and ability to save more
- The number of years you have until you retire
- The right balance of security, income and growth opportunities for you
